Audubon's Birds and Climate Initiative—and Us: 314 North American Bird Species on the Brink of Extinction

By Amy Cilimburg

Perhaps you have already heard about the “Audubon Report” on birds imperiled by climate change. The results from that study, released in early September, are alarming—314 North American bird species on the brink. What are the implications for Montana birds and what can we in Montana do about it? How can citizen scientists help, and how can we use “climate-smart conservation”—in western Montana and beyond—as part of the solution?

Join Bitterroot Audubon Monday, November 17th to hear Montana Audubon's Amy Cilimburg. She will present a slide show that highlights not just answers to these questions, but also a deeper look into the Audubon report, the largest and most comprehensive examination of birds and climate change ever undertaken in North America. Over the past seven years, Audubon's team has analyzed more than 30 years of bird observations from the North American Breeding Bird Survey, Audubon's Christmas Bird Count, and data from leading climatologists in the US and Canada. This assessment gives us an unprecedented ability to project where birds are most likely—and unlikely—to survive in the future. We'll look at the future of swans, curlews, chickadees, owls, hummingbirds, and more, and we'll circle around to the status of climate change solutions. Much can be done locally to create a better future for all.

Amy Cilimburg is the Director of Bird Conservation and Climate Policy for Montana Audubon, where she works to educate and inspire action around issues related to climate change, birds, wildlife, and energy in Montana. She spearheads, along with her colleague Amy Seaman, the Important Bird Areas (IBA) Program in Montana and collaborates with others to protect Montana's birds and their habitat. Amy has an M.S. in Wildlife Biology from the University of Montana, and prior to coming to Audubon, was the Assistant Director of the University of Montana Avian Science Center. This fall she received the Sustainability Advocate of the Year award from Missoula's Sustainable Business Council for her work to craft and implement municipal and community Climate Action Plans for Missoula. Amy lives with her husband, daughter, and dog in Missoula and strives to reduce her carbon footprint.

Festival of the Dead

By Kate Stone

Over 20 friends and members of Bitterroot Audubon participated in Missoula’s Festival of the Dead Parade on November 2nd. This event honors life and death through community involvement in the arts. Bitterroot Audubon paraded the streets of Missoula to honor dead trees and the role they play as habitat for birds and other wildlife. Along with several dead trees, we had two bats, two Ivory-billed Woodpeckers, a Flying

Survey of Forest Carnivores

This winter, the MT Wilderness Association and Defenders of Wildlife will use volunteers to monitor forest carnivores in the Bitterroot and Sapphire Mountains. Field work will include setting up a monitoring station with a staff member and visiting it again with a partner every 3-4 weeks over the winter. This will involve snowshoeing and/or cross country skiing in the backcountry, with some stations closer than others. Or you can be involved by helping to sort images taken with remote cameras. There's a kickoff meeting/party on DEC 4 in Missoula. Contact Kylie Paul at kpaul@defenders.org or 406-728-8800.

Bitterroot Audubon 2015 Calendar

By Becky Peters

What's something that involves our Bitterroot Valley birds, local photographers, local children, and local businesses all the while bringing in money for local projects for our birds' habitats? Why, that can only be our locally made Bitterroot Audubon 2015 Calendar!!

And it is a beauty! You already have a 2015 calendar you say? Well, was it locally made and does the money stay local to help local residents? Probably not! Besides you need more than one calendar! You've got more than one room in your house! And what other calendar tells you where you can find which birds during each month? And what other calendar gives you space to write down the birds you see for each month? For a bird lover, there isn't another calendar as unique and useful as this one!

This is the third year we have made a Bitterroot Audubon Calendar and some say it is the best one ever! Out of the 400 submissions from a lot of talented, generous Bitterrooters, we laboriously narrowed our calendar photos down to 55, and would have gone for more if we could have.

What does your $15 go for when you purchase one, or two?! (They make great boasting gifts to give to non-paradise residents unlucky enough not to live here!) Well, your money stays here in the Valley. Bitterroot Audubon uses the funds to support our Conservation Projects, Education Projects and Scholarship Funds for Montana college students in Environmental Sciences. We are truly thinking of the future for our birds and our children. Help us help them.

You can purchase the calendars at the November BAS meeting and at the Christmas Bird Counts. You can also find them at local stores in Hamilton: Chapter

One, Paper Clip, Picturesque, Robbins', Bitterroot Drug, Art Focus, Sam's Spade and Lakeland Feed; in Stevensville at the Lisa Archer Silks/Antique Store and in Missoula at Naturalist's Mercantile. If those places are not convenient, by all means buy them online at bitterrootaudubon.org. $18 will cover the calendar and postage, etc. You will enjoy this calendar much longer than a year.

Wildlife Grants Available—Apply Today

Montana Audubon is offering small grants ($500 maximum/$1,700 total) for wildlife research and education projects, with an emphasis on non-game wildlife. Grants come from our Audubon Wildlife Fund of Montana endowment. The funds can be used for mileage, equipment, printing, and communications; the funds cannot be used for salaries, stipends, and personal equipment. In 2014, grants purchased equipment for research and education projects at Salish Kootenai College, helped fund a research project on Montana's vulnerable wetlands, and aided a Northern Hawk Owl study in western Montana.

To apply for an Audubon Wildlife Fund grant, visit our website

(<http://www.mtaudubon.org/about/grants.html>).

Applications must be emailed (preferred) or post marked by Friday, December 12, 2014. Grant recipients will be announced by February 1, 2015.
